

Some Reflections that clearly show evidence of meeting the stated outcome/s

Grade 6

Before the festival begun, I organize the games so who are doing C&S for games they could be easy to do it. Also, I started to decorate the hallways for the haunted house so people who are coming indoors they could know how should they go. PTA asked me to get a light and put it in to the pumpkins and organize the halloween basket so people can get one. Lastly, we helped PTA to decorate the in front of the theater so it looks freaky.

Possible Outcome: Collaboration

Grade 7

In Tech Crew we do all the technical work in assemblies, plays and other events that involve the theatre. I usually work on collaboration and learning new skills in Tech Crew. I think I have gotten better at collaborating with others in Tech Crew, especially with people I don't know that well. My goal is to keep doing this and also to gain more knowledge about things in the Tech Booth.

Possible Outcomes: New Skills and Collaboration

Grade 8

Trashbusters was an exciting activity. When I went out and started to pick up garbages, I noticed there were many trashes. Then, I started to think about the environment. I learnt how our environment is getting destroyed (by picking up trash) and what we have to do. We had to pick up many trashes and help make the world a better place. And by doing this activity with friends, I got to work collaboratively with them and help them pick up trash.

Possible Outcome: Global Issues

Grade 9

Today I worked at the RFG Christmas Market. I had three jobs to complete, taking the beer bottles to the garbage from the beer hut, selling tickets at the entrance and setting up the drinks that were available for the customers to buy. While I was setting the drinks up, I had to be aware of my surroundings. This is because people wanted to purchase drinks, so I had to stop what I was doing and gather their order. At some moments, there was a long line, so I had to help them fast before the line got to long and people had to wait a while. When I was selling tickets, I had to collaborate with loads of people. This was challenging because, many people did not speak the same language as me. However, I had to face my challenge because those people needed valuable information to get into the christmas market. The information I had to deliver was, that if the customer had already purchased a ticket, then the person had to give the person sitting at the table (which was me) the ticket and they would receive a mug. This mug was so that the customer could buy drinks in the market. Also I had to give the people a token and had to clarify that this token must be given back to the person sitting here when they leave. This token was to see how many people were in the market at once. If the person did not have a ticket, they had to pay 30 RMB and they would receive a mug rather than a ticket. When I was taking the bottles to the garbage, I needed to be fast so I was back in time to help with the drinks and take more bottles if needed. Overall, I feel I learned a lot from this experience and would gladly do it again.

Possible Outcomes: New Challenges, Collaboration, Self Awareness

Grade 10

In Student Council, we have meetings every Friday lunch. We have helped out with Pfrang Day. We also initiated a Spirit Day that was somewhat successful. We are planning to present small skits in the beginning of every assembly for a monthly theme. November's theme is Peer Pressure. We are starting to plan on how we can help out at the NIC Benefit Concert. I am part of the lunch committee and we sent out a survey to the students. We will share the results with the people in charge

Possible Outcomes: Collaboration and Initiative and Planning
